DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This small ten foot wide house is unusual as an frame infill between two older log houses. It is two bays wide, one and a half stories high and sheathed with board and batten siding. A gable roofed dormer extends from the roof which is otherwise covered with standing seam sheet metal. The window with its two over two sash is built against the end of WA-WIL-292. The house is in fair condition and probably dates from the late 19th century.
